Art Unit: 2643

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 1, line 11 "the video call information" lacks antecedent basis, it appears that it should be 'conference information' to be correct.

Dependent claims 2-16 are also rejected for the same reason since they are dependent on a rejected base claim and contain the same problem(s).

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 1-38 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-21 of U.S. Patent No. 6,633,324. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the present claims are directed to the same invention albeit in obvious alternate language.

For example, consider patent claim 1 and present claim 1.

Patent claim 1:	Present claim 1:
A method for configuring video calls, the method comprising:	A method for configuring a conference among communications devices, the method comprising:
querying a platform with video call information for establishing a video call between plural video and points;	querying a platform with conference information for establishing a conference between plural communication devices;
providing the video call information to a rules-based engine;	providing the conference information to a rules-based engine;
and applying rules and device data with the rules-based engine to determine one or more video call configurations for a video call corresponding to the video call information.	and applying rules and communication device data with the rules-based engine to determine one or more communication device configurations for a conference corresponding to the video call information.

As can be seen from the above comparison, present claim 1 is similar and obvious over patent claim 1 where the present claim recites conference and communication devices while the patent claim recites video calls and video end points instead. However, present claim 1 and patent claim 1 are directed to the same invention and are not patentably distinct from each other. As disclosed in col. 4 lines 21-28 of the patent specification, the video calls are for establishing video conferences. Therefore, in view of this definition of the patentee, the terms "video call" and "conferences", "video endpoints" and "communication devices" are the same and interchangeable, therefore to replace "video call" with "conferences", "video endpoints" with "communication devices" as in present claim 1 would have been obvious over patent claim 1 and are not patentably distinct from each other and in the absence of a terminal disclaimer would result in possible harassment by multiple assignees.

Although only exemplary claim 1 is discussed above, the above analysis is applicable to the other claims. Furthermore, since the claim is in comprising format it is open to cover other non-claimed features; the features of the dependent claims which are dependent on the other independent claims are disclosed in the patent and covered by the comprising format of patent claim.
